

Easy access to intelligent bioinformatics

Biomax™ Secure Online Service offers life science organizations of any size an easy and affordable means of accessing sophisticated and timesaving bioinformatics solutions for routine use in their research endeavors.

Virtually all bioinformatics software, including a selection of your own software and databases, can be made available with secure online services from Biomax. Without ever leaving your desk or laboratory, it will be possible to confidently answer a wide variety of research questions or execute analyses. Biomax online services provide an intelligent way to ensure that your bioinformatics needs are always met. Biomax services include the following:

- Frequent and automatic updates of software and databases
- Extensive and customized training
- High-quality technical service and consultation
- Easy addition of new bioinformatics tools

Solve the following problems by choosing Biomax Secure Online Services:

- How can I get bioinformatics without spending a fortune on IT personnel or hardware?
- I don't have a year to spend getting in-house bioinformatics set up. How can I start getting results immediately?
- How can my growing company access the bioinformatics solutions that give us an advantage over competitors?
- How can I be sure that our sensitive research data is secure both from network intrusions and data loss?
- I'm not exactly sure what I need. Who can quickly understand my needs and provide me with cost-effective and expert advice?

Get started immediately

Implementing, testing and reconfiguring a bioinformatics infrastructure can take up to one year or even longer. With Biomax Secure Online Services not only can you be up and running in just a few days, you design the system to suit your needs. The end result is a highly flexible and customized solution that your researchers conveniently access from the laboratory, home or any place an Internet connection is available. You have the option to maintain your own databases or let us do it for you.

Minimize bioinformatics overhead

With Biomax Secure Online Services, your need for complex and costly IT infrastructure is substantially reduced. Choosing Biomax Informatics as a hosting partner eliminates the hassle and expense of in-house IT infrastructure and provides the peace of mind that comes with guaranteed confidentiality, high-quality consultation and data security.

When you are ready, you can combine Biomax online services with your in-house IT developments. Furthermore, you have the option at any time to move the entire system in-house.

One source – many benefits

- Secure and low-cost — access to bioinformatics services at any time
- Convenient — remote access to bioinformatics services from any place
- State-of-the-art — automatically provided software upgrades and database updates
- Customized and flexible — what you need when you need it

For more information about Biomax Secure Online Services, contact Biomax today and have online bioinformatics solutions tomorrow.

Biomax is a registered trademark of Biomax Informatics AG in Germany and other countries. Registered names, trademarks, etc., used in this document, even when not specifically marked as such, are not to be considered unprotected by law. PPR0309BSOLS

